

Contributors

KATHLEEN J. ADAMS is working with the Center for Population Studies, Harvard University. She has done extensive fieldwork with the Barama River Caribs of Guyana and has written numerous articles on their social organization and the role of women in that society.

Address: Harvard University
Center for Population Studies
9 Bow Street
Cambridge, Massachusetts 02138, USA

AUDREY BUTT COLSON held a university lectureship in ethnology at Oxford University. She has carried out field research among the Akawaio of Guyana, the Wayana of Surinam and French Guiana and the Pemon of the Gran Sabana, Venezuela. She has published extensively on the Akawaio and Pemon with special emphasis on their conceptual system in relation to society.

Address: Upper Throughtam
The Camp
Near Stroud
Gloucestershire, England

GERTRUDE E. DOLE is a research associate at the American Museum of Natural History. She did fieldwork among the Brazilian Kuikuru in 1953-1954 and among the Peruvian Amahuaca in 1960-1961. She is the author of "Anarchy without chaos: alternatives to political authority among the Kuikuru" (1966) and has published numerous articles based on her fieldwork.

Address: American Museum of Natural History
Department of Anthropology
Central Park West at 79th Street
New York, New York 10024, USA

SIMONE DREYFUS is professor at the Ecole des Hautes Etudes en Sciences Sociales and director of the Laboratory of South American Indian Ethnology. She has carried out fieldwork in Brazil, Chile and French Guiana. Amongst other works, she is author of Les Kayapo du nord, Etat de Pará, Brésil: contribution à l'étude des Indiens Gé (1963).

Address: Ecoles des Hautes Etudes en Sciences Sociales
44, rue de la Tour
75016 Paris, France

H. DIETER HEINEN is a research associate and head of the Department of Anthropology, Instituto Venezolano de Investigaciones Científicas, and also is a research fellow at the Latin American Center, UCLA. He did his main field research among the Warao, Pemon, and Ye'kuana Indians of Venezuela. He has published a number of articles based on his fieldwork.

Address: Instituto Venezolano de Investigaciones Científicas
Departamento de Antropología
Apartado 1827
Caracas 1010-A, Venezuela

PAUL HENLEY has been a research fellow of Sidney Sussex College, Cambridge. He has done fieldwork among the Panare and Wanai Indians of Cedeño District, Bolívar State, Venezuela. He is the author of The Panare: tradition and change on the Amazonian frontier (1982).

Address: 17 Emery Street
Cambridge CB1 2AX, England

GEORGE P. MENTORE studied social anthropology at the London School of Economics and Political Science. His field research was among the Waiwai of Guyana and he has just completed a doctoral thesis on Waiwai political economy at the University of Sussex.

Address: University of Sussex
Graduate School in Arts and Social Studies
Falmer
Brighton
Sussex, England

JOHN MORTON received his M.Litt. in social anthropology at Oxford University. He is presently working with the Aranda Aborigines of Central Australia and is taking his Ph.D. at the Australian National University, Canberra. The article published here was awarded a prize by the Committee of the 1982 International Congress of Americanists, being judged the best young contributor in the Anthropology and Linguistic section.

Address: Centro de Investigaciones Indígenas de Puerto Rico
Apartado 3831
Viejo San Juan
Puerto Rico 00904-3831

JOANNA OVERING KAPLAN is lecturer in the social anthropology of Latin America at the London School of Economics and Political Science. She conducted fieldwork in 1968 and 1977 among the Piaroa of the Amazon Territory of Venezuela. Her book, The Piaroa, a people of the Orinoco basin (1975), describes the polity of these American Indians and their system of kinship and marriage.

Address: London School of Economics and Political Science
Department of Social Anthropology
Houghton Street
London WC2A, 2AE, England

PETER RIVIERE is university lecturer in social anthropology at the Institute of Social Anthropology, Oxford University. His did his main field research among the Trio Indians of Surinam on whom he has published extensively, including Marriage among the Trio (1969). He has just published Individual and society in Guiana: a comparative study of Amerindian social organization.

Address: Oxford University
Institute of Social Anthropology
51 Banbury Road
Oxford OX2 6PF, England

KARL H. SCHWERIN is professor of anthropology at the University of New Mexico. His research encompasses aboriginal and contemporary Latin America. Fieldwork has been conducted in Venezuela, Ecuador, Mexico and Honduras. He is the author of Oil and steel: processes of Karinya culture change in response to industrial development (1966), and of recent articles on human land use in Honduras and food energy in tropical ecosystems.

Address: University of New Mexico
Department of Anthropology
Albuquerque, New Mexico 87131, USA

LUIS URBINA is professor at the National Experimental University of Guayana (UNEG) and a consultant to CVG-EDELCA, the Venezuelan national hydroelectric enterprise. He did fieldwork among the Warao, Pemon, and Ye'kuana Indians of Venezuela and has written on these groups.

Address: CVG-EDELCA
Departamento de Comunidades
Urbanización Alta Vista
Puerto Ordaz, Estado Bolívar, Venezuela

MARIA EUGENIA VILLALON is head of the Indigenous Affairs section, Dirección de Cultura, Gobernación del Estado Bolívar, Venezuela. She has done fieldwork among numerous Indian societies of Venezuela, especially with the Panare Indians of Cedeño District, on whom she has published several articles.

Address: Calle Igualdad 41-3
Apartado 285
Ciudad Bolívar, Estado Bolívar, Venezuela